

Sinclair
Broadcasting's
decision to force
their stations to
air an anti-Kerry
documentary days
before the election
is a clear example
of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the
public airwaves free
of charge, and it is obligated by law to serve the public interest. But the primary reason'etre
of a corpoation is enhancing their
bottoom line ...
sometimes regardless
of their charter.
When large companies
control the
airwaves, we get more of what they perceive is good for their bottom line
and less of what we need for our democracy. Instead of something
produced at "News
Central" far away,
it's more important
that we see real people from our own
communities and more
substantive news
about issues that matter.

Sinclair's actions
show why we need to strengthen media
ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license
renewal process
needs to involve
more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
